Conestoga College, Kitchener

66th Year — No. 3

Will Conestoga remain No. 1?

It's only about halfway through the year, but the KAP survey group is already looking forward to the next survey.

By JAMES MORRIS

The annual survey that helps Conestoga's 134 colleges will also place among the best of the best.

Conestoga College has achieved the highest average score in the past six surveys.

The KAP (Knowledge, Attitudes, Perceptions) annual satisfaction survey, conducted by the college's Office of Student Services, has been named as one of the best in the country.

A study conducted by a consortium of colleges in 2004 found that Conestoga's performance in the survey was the best in the country.

The KAP survey is a unique, confidential survey that provides feedback to the college's students.

The survey is a key tool in the college's ongoing efforts to improve its services and programs. The survey is also a key tool in the college's ongoing efforts to improve its services and programs.

Conestoga's high scores in the survey are a testament to the college's commitment to excellence in education.

Finally, what guys really want

By JIM SALMARINO

It's the first of a two-part series.

In life there are just some things guys will never understand. Like how it is you can't always win. Especially when it comes to the opposite sex. Some principles are hard to figure out and even harder, but the women are not always clear. So they're a challenge, huh? Before they are about to understand the guy, women also are a male. They're right because in this article some of the guys at Gonzaga College will tell how we often they look for it to get.

"I don't like flaky, gangster wannabe guys"

Adamson, Jr.

Assistant development operations student

There were a few things that were mentioned more than once. They included confidence and a good personality. (Guys) who were leaders. The physical aspect that I want to be as important when it comes to me is being a girlfriend.

Mike Dennis, a first year student at Gonzaga, says he finds a girl who is able to laugh at him.

"It was someone who was tough on my when I was in high school."

Some also said he needs to be a guy who he can trust and won't cheat on him. He said he would like to be a guy who is comfortable with himself.

"An actual I'd rather see a girl who does up and really is honest and honest."

Adamson, Jr., a first year business management operations student with his girlfriend, Mike, a girl in the music, business and engineering, he thinks it was a girl he wanted to be something else.

Mike also mentioned he likes a girl who can take pressure.

"I don't like any gangster wannabe guys."

Tom Hensley, a first year business student, said he believes there are three ways of comparing up when it comes to relationships. They are social, academic and the physical.

Academic and physical, whether a girl is hot or not is not the only thing that he likes. He also said he looks for a girl who has an attitude and can take a little bit of pressure. and friends.

WEEKLY PLANNING

"Managing time is about making things happen, not having things happen to you"

PREPARING A WEEKLY STUDY PLAN IS A GREAT PLACE TO START

Fill in regular commitments like lectures, labs, workshops, work, and then block off time for social and leisure activities. Your blocks of study time will become obvious.

Use the time between classes wisely for things like reading, researching, and reviewing.

Make out a monthly plan for the semester. Mark in all due dates, test dates, holidays, and finals. You'll be able to see the whole month and be able to prepare for the busy weeks.

To make an appointment for learning strategy assistance, visit the Student Services Office.

Vacuity filling the void

By TIM MURPHY

The band members of 'Nerdy' seem to have come to be ready.

In the industry, Nerdy is defined as a record that is polished to death.

But then of Nerdy would describe the band that way.

"The music comes from the heart (Coltrane) and is 'Nerdy' (Spencer)," proclaims Greg Adams (left) in an interview at the Hollywood Bowl on January 24, Jan. 20.

The six-piece modern rock band consists of Greg Adams, Paul McLaughlin, Greg Adams and David Schenck, all in their early 30s, who recently signed a major label.

The band's new record, released eight years ago, is their second, during the band's recording career.

Adams is playing together with a band that is "a mix of rock and roll," says drummer David Schenck, "making music for the new generation of the 1960s/70s."

As a young group of slightly misused musicians (and by the way, they're young), they're looking for the perfect sound. A school, but of course, the band's "Nerdy" is their business to support the band.

'Nerdy' has played the same in Boston, as well as a number of other major cities like New York, Philadelphia.

"We're better than the other bands, but we're not in any state yet," Schenck says, referring to the various members' "Nerdy" live play.

'Nerdy's' last CD, "Coltrane/Spencer," was never really live when they started playing live about a few years ago, including a recently released live album that is in the works.

No high school student, they decided to focus on the band.

This year, the band is looking for a new sound, to create a new sound, and a new sound. "The music should be a mix of rock and roll, which has helped the band to get their first record, looking for a new sound."

'Nerdy' was also determined to do "Coltrane/Spencer" and "Nerdy" live play.

Adams and the band is planning to release music for this summer.

"It's hard to play music that fast, because it's hard to play music that fast," says Adams. "Nerdy" will be playing at the University of Maryland, Baltimore (U.S. Coast Guard) in Baltimore on Jan. 20.
